

SLAYER OF PROVIDENCE GIRL WHO REFUSED STRANGER'S OFFER OF RIDE FURNISHES DESCRIPTION TO POLICE

Bene and went to St. Xavier's Catholic Church, where a solemn high mass of requiem was said. More than 1,000 persons attended. The little church being packed, hundreds were unable to enter.

Today Chief James Arton of Lincoln started a search of the records of all persons recently released from prison and issued warrants from, and in some instances furnished descriptions of the man in the Cocomo case.

Another clue being followed in that of a man who is said to have purchased an automobile similar to the one in which the girl was killed, he was traced.

Threats of an outbreak made by hundreds of men, women and children after they had passed before the title which offends in the Cocomo case, caused the East Providence police to hold an emergency squad in readiness of the police station.

POLICE ARMED.

The officers were armed with revolvers and night sticks and they waited for him to enter. At the Cocomo home on South Broadway, East Providence, two plain clothes men mingled with the throng of mourners and a motorcyclist kept all automobiles on the move.

Several uniformed policemen were also kept in the vicinity.

Calmer minds among the tallies pointed out that police was one of the reasons back of the criticism of the police. They told, too, of efforts being made to use the case as an argument for a State police force, with "plums" for the sponsors. These calmer minds prevailed and the groups dispersed and went to their homes.

Meanwhile, Chief of Police Albert Adams of East Providence was taking to chance. He had an armed squad in readiness and he sent two plain clothes men to the Cocomo home to augment the regular uniformed police detail in the neighborhood. Chief Adams said he was determined to preserve law and order and was ready to call on Providence and Pawtucket for reinforcements if the occasion demanded.

At one time during the progress of the long line of people through the Cocomo home the father of Clementine collapsed and had to be assisted by a physician.

REWARD IS INCREASED.

Governor Flynn, in a statement declaring "the slayer must be found," offered a reward of $100 in behalf of the State of Rhode Island for the capture of the fiend. Two thousand dollars is now the price set on the head of Clementine's slayer. The colored, wounded, Company of Providence offered a reward of $1,000. The City Council of East Providence $250 and the United Department Store $250.

Governor Flynn's statement is "I have that every police officer throughout Rhode Island assist in the hunt. The slayer must be found. It was one of the most detestable crimes in the history of Rhode Island. Everything will be done to find the murderer."

The "Ethel in Walter" letter was cleared up by the Lincoln police and the ex-slave suspect was released. These were the only arrests and they were negative—developments in the case. A letter from "Ethel" to "Walter" was found near the grave. It was written by a South Providence woman, a brother, who lives in the vicinity of Coddle Hill road, the scene of Clementine's grave.

LETTER CLEARED UP.

The letter was written last January and concerned the installation of a radio set, which the brother

JUROR IN CORCORAN CASE PUT ON THE STAND

A juror, one of the twelve who found William J. Corcoran, J. Warren Kane and Mrs. Theresa Duggan of being guilty in a scheme to extort money, was placed on the stand today at the hearing on the trial for a new trial.

Judge Whiting, in Middlesex Superior Court, was expected to rule on the motion following today's hearing.

Dr. Albert M. Crook, the juror, a Fremont street chemist who lives in Somerville, denied he had discussed the case when on the panel. He denied having declared to another defendant that he had been told Corcoran was "a bad actor."

John J. Hart, a Lowell street car conductor and a juror with Dr. Crook, submitted an affidavit to the court declaring this statement of the chemist to be false. Judge Whiting refused to allow the affidavit.

Men's Filene-made blue suits

serge and unfinished worsted, single and double breasted in four new best selling models

"The Pembrooke"
Distinctly a young man's model featuring wide trousers (not too extreme); loose two-button sack coat; double-breasted, square cut; all the points of an English suit turned down for American wear.

"The Millbridge"
Another modified English model introduced months ago by Filene's and overnight became a "best seller." Hoosier, loose suit cut like The Pembrooke but with the new English idea—short jacket, single-breasted vests.

"The Governor"
Two months ago we introduced The Governor at $38. They sold out in a big time because the three-button double-breasted style answered the problem of conservative men who usually find such suits too extreme for their conservative tastes.

"The Somerset"
Conservative, surely, but the straight, high cut front, but hundreds of young men and older men come back season after season with the same trite phrase, "Give me another suit like this one—and it's a Somerset."

—and rarely, if ever, is a blue suit event of this kind offered—a new low price for Filene-made blue suits, tailored to fit like custom-made clothes.

Plenty regulars, shorts, longs and stouts.

And $38 will buy Men's two-trouser suits made by nationally advertised makers for the regular season—bought by us at 1/4 less than regular wholesale cost and sold at 1/4 less than the regular retail price—$38, a price less than you would ordinarily pay for one-trouser suits of the same goods.

Plenty hard worsteds and sharkskins for men who give suits hard wear at a desk, getting in and out of autos, traveling on trains—all with extra trousers to double the wear.

Application for a charge account may be made in the Men's Store

If you knew what ageing in wood does for pipe tobacco

Even the finest Kentucky Burley Tobacco (and that's the kind we use) is green and raw when it's pulled. You could hardly smoke one pipe load of it.

And here's where Velvet is different: Our ageing takes out that rawness and harshness, and makes the tobacco mild and mellow and gives it fine flavor. Ageing in wood does what no artificial treatment can do.

Remember—Velvet Tobacco, aged in wood.

HELEN JESMER TELLS OF ROMANCE BROKEN BY YOUNG PLANT

FORSAKEN AFTER ACCIDENT THAT DISFIGURED HER

New York, April 30.—A broken wife of a girl, in 1920 the most beautiful in the east of the Greenwich Village Follies but now totally disfigured for life, tried to put into words on the witness stand the agonies she suffered as the result of a crushing automobile accident three and a half years ago.

Her face disfigured and her body maimed, Helen Jesmer, who was the belle of the Follies, sat in the witness chair, her face pale and her hands clasped in her lap. She was dressed in a simple, dark dress, and her hair was pulled back. She looked weary and sad.

Philip Morgan Plant, the young heir to $12,000,000, who drove the automobile on the eventful night of November 1, 1920, and whom she is suing in Justice Livingston's part of the Supreme Court for $500,000 damages, sat unmoved fifteen feet away from Helen Jesmer.

SAYS LOVE, MICAL J.
Her cousin, Thomas J. O'Neill, former deputy attorney general in the Ward murder case, gruffly addressed her over the first few meetings and said:

"Just prior to the accident what was the relationship between you two?"
A—He was my lover, and we were in love."

LIKED TO FLOWER
Q—What did Plant say to you?
A—He was always talking about his love for me. At one time in court, I think it was on Long Island, he said to me: "What would you say if I asked you to marry me, you wonderful girl?" At another time he repeated that he loved me and that I was his life."

Q—Did he tell you he would marry you?
A—Oh, yes. He said because I was so gentle, ladylike and quiet

BEAUTY GONE, SHE SUES FOR $500,000

Former member of the Greenwich Village Follies who sued Philip Morgan Plant for $500,000.
She was a passenger in Plant's car going from New Haven to New York when the car crashed into a tree and Miss Jesmer was thrown out. One eye was destroyed by the accident and her hair is gone. Plant inherited $15,000,000 from his foster father.

On the way back from New Haven, where she had gone with him to pay a Sunday afternoon visit to one of his friends, a freshman in Yale, she said, "I was sitting in the back seat of the car when it crashed into the tree. I was thrown out and I was hurt. I lost my eye and my hair. I am now a cripple. I can no longer work. I need money to live. I am suing you for $500,000."

"Tis a Crool Would!" Siki Counted Out at Ellis Island

New York, April 30.—Battling Siki, hero of the French cafes and the holder of more championship titles outside the ring than in, was counted out by the immigration authorities at Ellis Island.

When the Ward line steamer arrived here from Havana Siki was modestly registered among the third cabin passengers as Louis Fall.

At Ellis Island it was forthwith discovered that the French quota had been filled some time ago. Siki was compelled to remain there until he is deported or until such time as the government believes he might be admitted.

And there you have it.

BRIDE OF 4 DAYS HEARS HUSBAND SENTENCED

While his bride of four days held his hat and smiled nervously at him, William W. Kellogg of No. 41 St. Stephen street, Back Bay, issued to Judge Sullivan sentences him to six months in jail in Manhattan Court today for stealing $300 from a former sweetheart.

Mrs. Catherine Kellogg of Belmont street, Beacon Hill, was the accused. Last January she gave Kellogg $300 with which he pretended to get a disputation for her that they might have. The fact that Mrs. Kellogg already had a husband living in Ireland made the act of a disputation attractive.

Kellogg disappeared with the money and the next Mrs. Kellogg heard of him was when she read in the paper that he was to be married to Miss Ada P. Wilson, a nurse at Beverly.

Mrs. Kellogg had her former sweetheart, who had been in the army, heard all about it, but she believed she had been deceived in Kellogg. Accordingly, the couple were married last Saturday and the time they had in Manhattan Court today.

Kellogg, an automobile salesman, was the woman's chauffeur. He said he never took money from her but she, however, produced a bank book showing that she had given him $300 as a wedding gift. Kellogg said he had given her $300 as a wedding gift. Kellogg said he had given her $300 as a wedding gift.

WILL TRY AGAIN TO FIX B. & M. WAGE RATE

The conference between members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and conductors and President James H. Duffie of the Boston & Maine Railroad over the proposed 5 per cent. raise called in a disputation today. Though the railroad has promised a 5 per cent. increase in salary, the engineers claim certain arrangements of long standing should be made. A general strike from the West will be called for the first time in the history of the railroad. Chairman Duffie denied the claim that the railroad was the first to call for a strike.

Immigration Law Sends Hundreds to the Orient on Crowded Steamships

San Francisco, April 28.—(A.P.)—Hundreds of Japanese men, anxious to marry Japanese women and return to this country before the proposed immigration law becomes effective July 1, are crowding all steamers sailing from here for the Orient, according to the San Francisco Examiner.

The Examiner says the Pacific Mail Steamer President Wilson, which sailed yesterday for Japan, carried 400 Japanese and did not have accommodations for many other passengers.

Before departing, Japanese residents of the United States must appear before the consul of their country and make written declaration of intention to return to America within a short time.

Jap Exclusion Fight Will Be Renewed

Washington, April 29.—With multitudes piling up an agreement by Senate and House Immigration bill reported for postponement of the effective date of the American provision until July 1, a renewal of the Japanese exclusion fight, in the Senate at least, appears certain.

The postponement is understood to have been suggested by President Coolidge to give time for diplomatic exchanges between Washington and Tokyo that would, without giving as much offense to the Japanese, attain the end sought in the exclusion provision.

Word was taken to the White House late yesterday that the Senate and House Conference could be expected to take a decision on the postponement within twenty-four hours.

Miss Cornelia Fiske Is Bride Today In Cambridge, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

A NUMBER of interesting social events are on the cards for today.

Of relative importance, of course, is the high noon ceremonial at Christ Church, Cambridge, which will transform Miss Cornelia Fiske into the bride of Thomas Wentworth Storrow.

Mrs. Lloyd B. Sanderson, Jr. (Rosanna Fiske), comes on from New York to act as honor attendant for her sister. Just one day less than a year ago, when Rosanna Fiske became a bride in the same historic house of worship, where both her mother, the late Mrs. Charles H. Fiske, and her grandmother, Mrs. Samuel L. Thorndike, took their marriage vows.

Miss Mary H. Burr is also of today's attending group, and little Miss Mary G. Storrow is to be the flower girl.

The bridesman, a Harvard '13 man, has been selected to be her man, his brother, Edward Cabot Storrow.

THOUGH an out-of-town event, there is considerable Boston interest in the wedding of Miss Rosamond Stewardson and Charles H. Taylor, Jr., which will be solemnized very quietly at the Philadelphia home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Knapp Stewardson.

Mr. Taylor, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Taylor of Boston, received his champagne from Harvard with the class of '21.

TWO Southern weddings, also on the cards for today, have their Boston interest.

Miss Isabella Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson Carter, and Douglas Crocker will be married in Richmond, Va., the ceremony scheduled for 12:30 in All Saints Church.

The bridegroom, who will have among his guests a number of Harvard '19 classmates, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Crocker of "The Knoll," Philadelphia. The family have a host of connections in Boston, where they are frequent visitors. Another son, John Crocker, was married about two years ago to Miss Mary Halliwell, daughter of the N. Penrose Halliwell.

The other "two, home and away" event taking place today is the South's marriage of Miss Nancy Howard de Ford and Edward C. Venable. The ceremony has been set for noon at the Baltimore home of the bride's mother, Mrs. William de Ford.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. Thomas P. Deal of Boston and a niece of Mrs. Herbert C. Deal of Boston.

'DRINKERS' ARE LONGEST WED, SAYS DR. PEARL

Steady Users of Alcohol Show Best 'Expectation of Life,' Tests Show

Washington, April 29.—(A.P.)—Patrons relating chiefly to the medical sciences and including one by Dr. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins University, presenting "expectation of life" tables on users of alcohol calculated in the same manner as life insurance mortality tables, were read today at the concluding sessions of the annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences.

"Steady drinkers," Dr. Pearl reported, "have a better expectation of life at all ages from 20 on to the end of the life span, than do total abstainers."

His tables, he explained, were based on data including "exact records as to the drinking habits of thousands of persons throughout their lives" and covering more than 100,000 person-years "exposure to risk."

The difference in the life-span expectations of steady drinkers and total abstainers, he said, "are not very great, but there is a distinct and well-marked advantage in favor of the moderate steady drinkers."

"Heavy drinkers," he continued, "have the poorest expectation of life at all ages after thirty in the case of females and at all ages after thirty and up to about sixty-five in the case of males. From about sixty-five on the heavy drinking males and the total abstaining males have about the same expectation."

"These conclusions are drawn from what he considered the most critically adequate material, considering both quality and quantity, which has ever been available for the study of the problem of the influence of alcohol upon the duration of human life."

BAIN, MINE HEAD TESTIFIES TO OIL JURY

Author of Famous "Doherty Letter" to Fall Called as Witness

Washington, April 29.—(A.P.)—Peter Bain, director of the Bureau of Mines, was called today before the special District of Columbia Grand Jury inquiring into criminal charges resulting from the Senate oil investigation.

Director Bain appeared several times before the Senate committee to explain his theories as to drainage of the oil fields of Texas and the terms and conditions of the contracts entered into by Albert B. Fall and Edwin Doherty on behalf of the government and E. L. Doherty's Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Company.

He is the author of a letter of May 22, 1923, to Secretary Fall at Three Rivers, N. M., urging that he obtain an opinion of Attorney General Daugherty as to the legality of one of the contracts with the Pan-American Company and stating that none of "us" wanted to see Doherty sent into difficulty.

BLAME HARRIS FOR $250,000 RUM LOSS

Another Complaint Filed This One Involving "Disappearance" from Storage

The alleged disappearance of $250,000 worth of seized liquor from the Massachusetts Storage Warehouse is the basis for the filing of another complaint against United States District Attorney Robert O. Harris by the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League.

Both Mr. Harris and Deputy United States Marshal James A. Telle are accused of letting seized liquor get out of their possession in a letter written to W. M. Fergate, a representative of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League to United States Attorney General Stone.

The Anti-Saloon League chief based his latest complaint against Mr. Harris on newspaper accounts of the disappearance from the storage warehouse of quarter of a million dollars worth of liquor seized from "Don" Keefe, Boston hotel.

"The story of the supposed mysterious disappearance was carried in the press and I believe to date has never been denied by either Mr. Harris or Marshal Keefe," says the Fergate letter of complaint.

The dry chief accuses Deputy Marshal Telle of failing to account for $15 bottles of liquor in returns he made to the United States court in 1921. This accusation is based on the report of the number of bottles of liquor seized and the number reported destroyed or disposed of in other ways.

"Furthermore," the letter of complaint states, "according to reports of some of the institutions and firms doing as receiving liquor, they, among them the Eastern Drug Company and the Fall River hospital."

MRS. LEONA SMALL

80-POUND WIFE HAPPY WITH HER TOTS

Her happiness unbounded at being reunited with her two children, Mrs. Leona C. Small, 80 pound wife of "Big Jim" Small, former Boston policeman, told an American reporter just why she fought like a tiger when she "disappeared" the children from the house of her mother-in-law in Hingham.

"It was my last resort," she said, "in my happiness of Leona Clifford, two years old, and George Clifford, four years, as the children played contentedly near her at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Morton, No. 44 Glen road, Jamaica Plain."

When Judge Wood in Suffolk Superior Court allowed the children to remain at the home of my mother-in-law, he specified that I was to be allowed to see them frequently. For a time they allowed me to see the children weekly.

"Then, about a month ago, I went to see my little ones, and they were hidden from me. My husband and his mother were standing in front of the house with the two children when they saw me coming. They at once hurried the children into the house and refused to let me in."

JOHN STEEL TO GIVE FINAL CONCERT

John Steel, the American tenor, will give his final concert of the season at the Tremont Theatre, Sunday evening. For his program he had chosen songs of the better sort without excluding the extremely classical list, and he also included a group of old Irish melodies, "O'Connell's."

The career of John Steel has been watched with eager interest by all lovers of the art of song. Gifted by nature with a voice of unusual range, natural and of unusual richness of texture, he had the fundamentals for becoming a great lyric tenor when he first attracted notice a few years ago as a member of the Ziegfeld Follies.

DEFECTS FOUND IN U. S. WAR FLEET

Admiral Conz Reports Lack of Repairs and Slowness of Auxiliaries

Washington, April 29.—Serious deficiencies in the United States fighting fleet mobbed in southern waters last winter were reported by Admiral E. Conz, commander-in-chief to the Navy Department.

Admiral Conz said that the fleet was seriously embarrassed by the low speed of the auxiliary ships, that ships generally had not been kept "properly repaired" because of lack of appropriations, that thirteen of the older battleships needed modernization of machinery, elevation of turret guns and equipment with aircraft defenses, and that submarine operations were the "weakest of all" of the fleet.

The report urged that the building program to complete aircraft carriers, destroyers and submarine tenders, and to construct light cruisers, "modern" submarines, "destroyer" submarines and "heavy" submarine tenders, be pressed.

STATLER PUTS ASIDE BOSTON HOTEL PLANS

High Construction Costs Preclude Possibility of Park Square Structure

Buffalo, N. Y., April 29.—Until there is a material reduction in building and equipment costs there will be no construction of a new Statler Hotel in the Park square district of Boston, according to an announcement by E. M. Statler, president of the Statler Hotel Company.

That announcement was made after a close analysis of the bids received from nationally prominent contractors who figured on the plans and specifications of the Boston hotel, which would cost $12,000,000 to complete.

Present conditions he says make any such a huge outlay in the nature of a gamble. "One third or one quarter of the amount of money required to build a first class hotel," he says, "would bring a much more satisfactory profit if invested in a

PROMOTIONS IN POLICE FORCE COMING SOON

Commissioner Wilson Announces Large List to Be Acted Upon

Commissioner Wilson

Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson announced today that a large number of promotions are to be made in the Boston police department in the "immediate future."

At present there are vacancies for four captains, one lieutenant, one sergeant and two inspectors. If these are filled it will mean the naming of four captains, five lieutenants, six sergeants and two inspectors. The position of chief master, formerly held by the late Captain Patrick E. King, chief clerk, formerly held by Captain Thomas Ryan, and the positions formerly held by Captain Devitt in the claims department, and Captain Clinton H. Bowley of West Roxbury station, are vacant.

Quite a problem is faced in the naming of inspectors due to shortage of available sergeants doing detective duty.

Washington, April 29 (U.S.)—Secretary of War Weeks declared today that instead of being opposed to issuing Muscle Shoals to civilians, he was heartily in favor of it, but that he knew the United States could not move for the big wartime project than any other that had yet been made.

"The leasing of Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford by any other person or firm is entirely in the hands of Congress," he said. "But I know that if the matter were properly handled we can get more out of it than any other made to date."

MAYOR CURLEY

Endorses the LIFEBOUOY Health Protection Movement

CITY OF BOSTON
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
CITY HALL

JAMES M. CURLEY
MAYOR

Lever Bros. Co.,
Cambridge, Mass.

Gentlemen:

There is an old saying that cleanliness is next to Godliness; and modern experience has taught us that cleanliness is the very core of health and the sanitation that makes life safe and civilization secure in the world of 1924.

Your enterprise is peculiarly an advocate and agent of the sanitation that saves; and your advertising campaigns exploiting your product "Lifebuoy" soap are a very practical aid to the health and welfare of the community, since you have made your publicity a means of educating the public along lines of prime importance to the public health.

Yours sincerely,
JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor.

The MAYOR'S LETTER

Health's surest safeguard

HEALTH AUTHORITIES say that mothers and school teachers are doing more to protect the health of the community than all other influences combined—

Simply by teaching children constantly to PURIFY their hands.

School children are democratic. They all touch the same things—books, door knobs, stair rails—and one another. Some of these children come from homes less clean than yours—where they are careless about sickness.

It is the habit of personal cleanliness as taught in school and home, which safeguards the health and good looks of millions of children and prevents them from spreading contagion.

Graciously to skin

Lifebuoy is a perfect health soap because it is so pure and mild that it can be used many times a day with benefit to the skin.

Yet the wonderful antiseptic released in the rich, creamy lather removes germs and gives real protection to health.

This gentle antiseptic exerts a soothing influence, tones up the skin, keeping it soft, smooth and attractive—with the rosy ur-jerglow of a radiant complexion.

So that your whole family may keep well and happy enforce this simple home law: "Lifebuoy when you get up, after work or play, before eating and before going to bed."

You will quickly become fond of Lifebuoy—especially of its wholesome, vanishing odor—it gives one such a comfortable feeling of being utterly, safely clean. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

BURGARS FIRE AT POLICEMAN IN CHASE

Surprised at Malden Office Safe, They Return Shots in Street Flight

Two burglars, surprised in the office of the Malden Coal Company, at Linden avenue and Clinton street, Malden, escaped after a running fight to battle with Patrolman Daniel W. Craven.

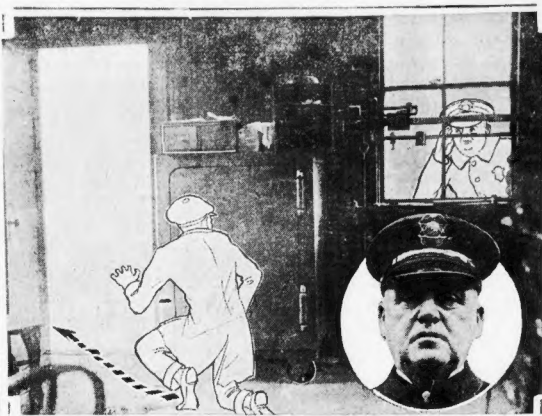

Patrolman Craven entered the office of the burglars were preparing to open the safe, which contained $1,000. He had been trying doors on his beat and found the coal company door open. As he stepped inside, the burglars rushed to an open window and leaped out.

Craven turned and pursued the two men, who ran toward the Oak Grove railroad station.

When they failed to break his order to halt, the policeman opened fire.

The burglars, half-turning as they ran, returned the fire. Craven abandoned the chase after emptying his

Dancing and Dining News

Arthur Hunter and his Partners are putting high spirit in the nightly programs at Hooley's, where a wide variety of entertainment is presented. Mr. Hunter and his "Shoppers" have come to Hooley's direct from a long season in vaudeville. Another feature is the Manhattan Society Orchestra, which provides teasing music for the dancers.

For after-theatre recreation the Lorraine makes a special appeal, as it is conveniently located in the heart of the theatre district. The idea two hallmarks for the pleasure of those who dance, there is a double room, featuring both American and Italian cooking.

One of the most attractive restaurants that features dancing as an aid to eating is the Par Hotel, in which patrons come in pleasant contact with the Orient. An Hawaiian orchestra furnishes the dance music.

OLD FURNITURE COMPANY OPENS NEW STORE

The Holmes Lane Company, with a proud record of forty years of public service as furniture dealers, opened its new store at Nos. 63-70 Haver street yesterday.

From early morning till closing time, hundreds of friends of the organization visited the new quarters, and all were highly impressed with the tastefully-arranged furniture displays located on all sides by beautiful floral designs from many well-known florists.

The National Furniture stores were unfurled to the breeze at noon in front of the store by a band of U. S. sailors, while an orchestra played the National Anthem. Hundreds stood in attention with bare heads during the part of the exercises.

A. L. Holmes and F. B. Lane founded this company in 1884, joining hands in business and purchasing the C. H. Robinson Company.

FRUIT JUICE LAW RIDICULED BY GALLIVAN

Girls Picking Flowers and Cows Browsing in the Fields Now in Danger, He Says

Washington, April 29 (U.S.N.S.)—The apple, the peach, the pear, the cherry and all other manner of fresh fruits, were added today to the prohibition rogues' gallery, alongside such culprits as the little brown jug, the molasses shaker and the juniper berry.

A ruling handed down by Prohibition Commissioner Hayes stated that hereafter it shall be unlawful to peddle or trade in fresh fruits, the home that may have forgotten themselves to such an extent as to ferment.

Even the possession of such unwholesome fruits has become unlawful, the commissioner decided.

Representative James A. Gallivan of Boston, waved a sarcastic reply about Hayes' new ruling.

Hereafter a strictly law-abiding family he said, will have to divide itself into day and night watches to keep an eye on the cut-glass bowl in the center of the table.

Just as soon as the apple becomes juicy, a peach gets ripe, or a cherry matures, Tuesday morning for Saturday night—into the garbage can it goes.

"Hush for Hayes," said Gallivan in a formal statement.

"Soon little girls gathering flowers in the fields will be bait for prohibition officers," Gallivan declared. "Cows browsing in the fields will be no longer safe for themselves, but rather for alcoholic drinks."

'IF HE YELLS FOR DRYS, TAP HIS HIP'—BUTLER

Columbia Head Reads Officials, Judges and Ministers in New Attack

Springfield, April 29.—Rev. Dr. Charles Tru Wilson of Washington, general secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, today telegraphed a challenge to President Butler of Columbia to present the prohibition question before the Methodist general conference here.

New York, April 29.—The annual dinner of the Student Society resolved itself into a prohibition debate with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, asailing the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Senators and Representatives in Congress," he said, "monochromatic vote for prohibition legislation and quickly became themselves fast to treatment to a drink of alcoholic liquor."

Judges sentenced men to fine and imprisonment for having been detected in doing what other judges do without detection. Whether you hear a public officer or a candidate for elective office cry out with us, you for law enforcement, tap him on the hip. Such is the pass of hypocrisy, of double-dealing, of cowardice, and of public and private immorality to which we have been reduced by the policy of prohibition."

He also made an attack on the Anti-Slavery League, and on those ministers who expressed sympathy for William H. Anderson, former New York League superintendent, who is now in prison for forgery.

"It is no more moral or inhuman to drink or to refrain from drinking alcoholic liquor than it is to eat or to refrain from eating roast beef or broiled oysters," Dr. Butler said.

10-YR.-OLD GIRL ATTACKED IN EAST BOSTON

Ten-year-old Annie Guiliano of No. 38 Chelsea street, East Boston, was attacked up by a man in front of the Lyman Grammar School, near her home and carried into an alley, where he attempted to attack her. The girl was returning home from the North End Dispensary. She had been ill and did not attend school. As she was passing the school building a man she describes as about twenty years old, short and thick set, with a "funny walk," suddenly snatched her up in his arms and ran with her into an alley. A woman neighbor, a witness, screamed for help. The man fled.

trip, and thus have an excuse for getting rid of the other lady.

The authorities are prosecuting him from the other lady, by locking him up in jail, without bail.

CLEMENCEAU, recently the "French Tiger," now a retired old gentleman in his eighty-third year, has just written a play especially for Mlle. Sorel. There is nothing surprising about that—in a Frenchman. The French don't grow old, at least their brains live on, as long as there is any life in the body.

Voltaire, in his eighty-fifth year, was at the height of his glory and power. At the theatre his bust was crowned with laurel. Young Mr. Astor has a duplicate of that bust.

THE CABLE tells of bad sleeping sickness in Great Britain, fifty-five cases in February, more in March, 649 this month, with disastrous after-effects.

The disease, however, doesn't seem to have touched the British Labor party, which is surprising. Old-fashioned Englishmen. Cost of government has been cut down, imperial finances show a surplus of $140,000,000, and labor men will probably drop some of the most offensive customs duties.

EDWARD DENAUNT, railroad conductor, retires, having ridden 1,650,000 miles in thirty-one years. That is an amazing distance, equal to forty-two trips around the earth. But everything is comparative.

The distance Mr. Denaunt traveled in thirty-one years light can travel in less than six seconds. Going at the same speed, through space, it would take the traveler more than 2,500 years to go from the earth to the sun.

AND THAT isn't anything, for astronomers tell you about the discovery of the universe outside of our own, entirely beyond the boundaries of the Milky Way. It's so far off that it would take a million years for light to come from those distant suns to us.

THE SOVIET government, continuing its futile effort to rout religion in Russia, puts another bishop on trial. At Easter a few hundred atheists paraded the streets. But for every atheist parading thousands were crowding the churches.

PETER THE GREAT found it hard enough to make old-fashioned Russians cut off their long beards and give up the long skirts that men wore. He had to threaten them with death, and actually to execute many to introduce his western ideas. Many of the old Russians saved the beards they cut off, to be put in their cellars—that they might not be ridiculed at the resurrection.

WHOEVER thinks he can root out religion doesn't know much about human beings. Read Bertrand Russell's book on "A Free Man's Belief." He doesn't think there is to be anything left of us after death. His book makes you realize how necessary religion is. Even a false religion is better than none, for it soothes the inquiring mind.

MUSSOLINI, having decided to change from a Socialist agitator to a successful national dictator, does the thing thoroughly. He received from King Hussein, new Caliph of the Arabian Moab, two magnificent Arab horses, and sends his "Master of the Horse" to get the horses, on which he will soon be riding. Changing from a Socialist, having a Master of the Horse, and riding Arab horses in Napoleonic fashion is quite a stride.

ARRESTED BOYS HAD SILVER AND MAH JONG

Booting hooch made three young men so absent minded they were unable to explain in Brighton Court today how they came to have a quantity of silverware bearing the initials "M. N. S." and a Mah Jong set in their possession when arrested. They are their names: Frank Woods, Broadway, South End, and James V. Phillips and Fred Cookley, both of Charley street, West end.

They were arrested at No. 50 Brighton avenue, Alston, where they evaded such a disturbance by kicking on doors that the entire neighborhood was aroused. After pleading guilty to intoxication, they were held in $1,000 each for a hearing.

BELGIANS TO MEET MUSSOLINI MAY 18

Brussels, April 30.—The conference which Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Hermans of Belgium are to have with Premier Mussolini of Italy has been fixed for May 18. It was announced today. They are to meet Mussolini at Milan. Arrangements are also being made for the visit of the Belgian statesmen to Prime Minister MacDonald in England over the coming week-end. Both conferences are for procedure to be taken by the allies on the Daves report.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON PEOPLE WHO ARE IMPOSSIBLE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There are people who are impossible. There are those in your social circle to whom you cannot deal at all.

There are women in your social circle to whom you simply will not talk. There are friends who have taken up some form of religious insanity and you have to avoid them to keep from quarreling.

When you will quarrel with any one it implies a certain degree of intimacy and agreement. You would not quarrel with the impossible person. You just go away.

One reason the world is so large and heaven so vast is to enable us to escape from impossible folk.

We are always polite to impossible people. It is easy among "our kind of folks" that we indulge in the luxury of being rude and natural.

Bromidiom, or stupid commonplaces, to and fro, is a priceless value when we are compelled to work in a common country. We wouldn't for our lives say a clever or a mad thing to them.

It is because there are so many of the impossible kind of people that we love the other kind so much.

THE LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

The call of New England's Minute Men 100 years ago was answered with tremendous results. The Minute Men of 1924 are calling to New England's business men now. What is the answer to be? LET'S GO!

There is wealth enough; power enough, physical and intellectual; ingenuity enough to plan, arrange, open and present to the public an exhibition that will rival—and, may we not hope, if spiritedly commenced, excel—any form of display of the kind in this country.—From the report of the Boston Fair Committee of 1836.

The Go-Getters of a Century Ago Won Business for New England by Merchants' Fairs

WHEN it was suggested that Boston bring the buyers and the tourists to New England by some such artifice as carnivals or merchants' fairs certain conservatives said, "But that would break precedent. It may be all right for Leipzig or Vienna or Lyons or Amsterdam or New Orleans or Los Angeles or Seattle, but we can't do such a thing because we never have done it."

Turn back to the pages of the Boston Advertiser of the last century, when Harriet Beecher Stowe was writing Uncle Tom, when the Prince Napoleon was seeking the north pole, when Prof. Agassiz ran a seminary for young ladies, when Fanny Davenport was acting Camille, when bond boys were sold out to service until 21 and our fires were extinguished by citizens in red shirts.

Boston led the new world in those days. Her bank clearings were $63,000,000. She was the banker, the builder, the shipper, the merchant and the manufacturer of the continent.

They held great fairs in Boston then. All of them exploited the products and advantages of New England.

The Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association was the pioneer in 1836. Mechanics Hall is their monument.

Late in that year a committee reported on the expediency of establishing in this city "an Annual Exhibition and Fair for the Encouragement of Manufactures and the Mechanic Arts."

The following Summer the fair was in full swing.

Said the committee in its appeal to the public

ance of exhibitions of this talent is drawn upon—the first opening bud of genius indicated and encouraged. Our committee contend that it is for the interest of every individual of the association, in dollars and cents, to establish and encourage an annual fair in Boston. There is wealth enough; power enough, physical and intellectual; ingenuity enough to plan, arrange, open and present to the public an exhibition that will rival—and, may we not hope, if spiritedly commenced, excel—any form of display of the kind in this country?

"All we require is a little of that enterprise for which the good people of Boston have so long and so justly been celebrated. We are confident the public will sustain us. . . . Whatever may be taken from the funds of the association will be more than repaid by the sale of tickets on the days of exhibition."

In concluding their appeal to the public they made the prediction that "an annual New England fair," for the purpose of exhibiting the work of ingenious minds and industrious hands of the daughters and sons of New England, would reap a "permanent benefit to the whole section."

This first of the New England industrial exhibitions was held in Faneuil Hall.

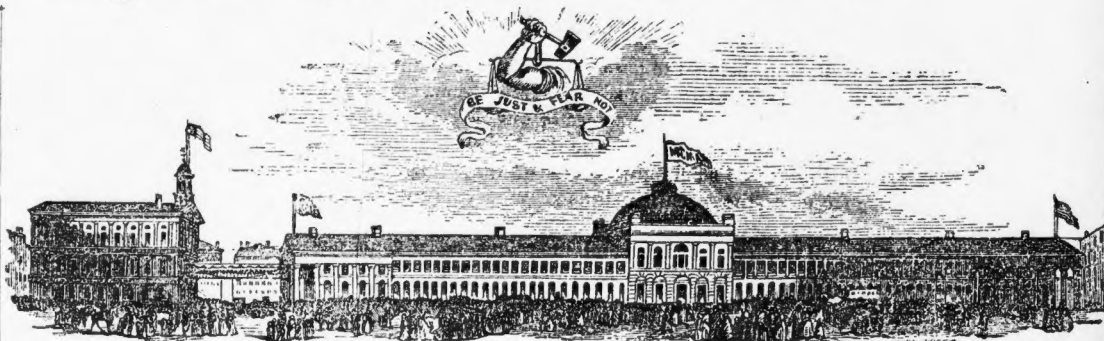

A writer's description:

"The expansive floor was covered with tables all laden with the most delicate fabrics; products of the deep-dug mine or the cultivated field. The ample galleries were filled with cabinet wares, cut from the forest tree of every clime; and were hung with the most elegant productions of the loom and of the artist. . . . There was a fine array of machinery and tools—the helps and the means of the mechanic—displayed upon either side in Quincy Hall, and extending 225 feet. Here were sources of protracted enjoyment to all who could fathom the mysterious application of wheels and screws and levers."

The work of arranging for the Fair was done hurriedly, the Board of Managers declare in their report. But they assert, all through their report, the great thing to do was to make a start, relying upon future years to bring improvements in management, number of exhibits and display.

It was said in the report following this first exhibition that "the city and the country poured forth their people to walk through the long aisles, manifesting unqualified pleasure and honest exultation."

That meant, of course, that the bulk of the visitors to the first exhibition in 1837 came from the cities and country towns of New England. Mention

They did not say in 1836 that there was no appropriate place in Boston to hold a great fair. They stammered Faneuil Hall and Quincy Hall. This cut, a reproduction from the Illustrated Magazine, which was the official organ of the Board of Managers of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, which sponsored the annual exhibition of the is made of the fact that the association was especially honored by visits from the "scientific and refined of our own vicinity," and by similar representation from Philadelphia, New York and Providence.

The conservative element had objected strenuously to the spending of $5,000 in advertising and in the dissemination of posters. But the exposition drew an attendance of more than 70,000 and cleared $12,000.

Remember that all of this show of enterprise happened in 1836 and 1837. It was the first of the Annual Exhibitions. Remember that this mechanics association was founded in 1795. The country had hardly recovered from the throbs and thrills of the Revolution. Spain at that time was a great factor on the Western Continent, holding Florida, Mexico and much of South America. Louisiana belonged to France. America was but a stretch of territory along the North Atlantic shore. The world was seething with political turmoil and the governments of Europe were tottering. But Bostonians were calm and practical. Their minds were set upon the development of their country by the encouragement of mechanic arts, and these men composed the rank and file of the Charitable Mechanic Association.

Until 1836 the members were satisfied to develop apprentices into full-fledged workers through courses of study and practical help.

Now let us go forward to 1856 and note the great progress which has been made in the calibre of the Annual Exhibition. Consult the pages of the Boston Advertiser of September 10 of that year on file at the Boston City Library.

"The exhibition is held in Faneuil Hall and Quincy Hall, and the two are connected by means of a suspension bridge.

"Furniture, upholstery, clothing, hats and caps and ladies' work are the principal articles to be found in the first section.

"Near the entrance are small tables occupied with articles of perfumery and hair lotions. On the right are some fine manufactured clothes from the Union Manufacturing Company of Norwalk, Conn. Geo. N. Nichols, George Lyon & Co., and Keith & Thornton. Hats, caps and furs by W. N. Shute and A. N. Cook & Co. Furnishing goods by E. R. Cleveland.

"Bonnets from Tilton's Bonnet Rooms, a great quantity of ladies' worsted and shell-work and fancy articles.

"In the gallery is an array of magnificent parlor and chamber furniture by James G. Blake, Doe, Hazleton & Co., and Phelps and Dimick. Pictures from Horace Barnes, window curtains, patent bedsteads and articles of a low character.

"The second section occupies the armory of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, immediately over Faneuil Hall. Here are a large number of musical instruments from various manufacturers. Of pianos, Chickering & Sons have the largest number, and Messrs. A. W. Ladd & Co., T. Gilbert & Co., Hallet, Davis & Co., W. P. Emerson and Jacob Chickering, have some fine instruments.

"Melodions and organ harmoniums are exhibited by Messrs. Nichols & Corbitt, Milton & Hamilton, and S. D. & H. W. Smith. Mr. Nathan Richardson has erected a miniature temple where a large variety of musical works are for sale.

manufacturers and mechanic arts of New England, shows how it was done. The first affair of this kind, held in 1837, was a success, although the plans were conceived but a few months before the date set for the opening.

The 1856 show was an especially brilliant affair because it was supplemented by the dedication of the Franklin statue

"The third section is in the west end of Quincy Hall, to reach which it is necessary to cross the suspension bridge. In this section are arranged articles of leather and india rubber goods from the manufacturers, and make an interesting display. Furs from Martin Walke & Co., and Geo. N. Bigelow. Shoes from T. E. Moseley & Co., and Gurney & Means. Umbrellas from the Taunton Umbrella Co., and shoe manufacturers' goods from Cragin, Page & Co. form the principal attractions in this department.

"The fourth section is mainly devoted to agricultural implements. There is a fine lot of ploughs by Parker, White & Gannett, besides hay cutters, mowing machines, ox yokes, forks, scythes and a large variety of domestic tools, by Nourse & Co., and Blake, Barnard & Co.

"In this section Mr. J. H. Hathorne exhibits one of his four-horse coaches of the Dock square and Canton street line, which is a very handsome vehicle.

"Section five has a collection of daguerreotypes and photographs, from several well-known Boston artists, and some from other places.

"The sixth section is the rotunda of the Quincy Hall. In the centre of the rotunda, elevated on a platform, is one of the celebrated Fresnel lights. This instrument is a revolving light of the second order, and was constructed for a lighthouse on the coast of Maine, where it will be erected soon after the close of the exhibition. As the light is in operation during the evening, it attracts much attention.

"Heavy machinery and iron manufacturers occupy the seventh and eighth sections. Steam power is used to put the machinery in operation and motion is communicated by means of belts connected with an engine of thirty horsepower, manufactured by the Putnam Machine Co. in Fitchburg.

"In the ninth and last section are a variety of valuable inventions, such as car brakes, patent windlasses, burglar alarm bells and the like.

They synchronized that great show so that it was distributed all over town. No great exposition buildings, mind you. They used Horticultural Hall for the flower show and the fair grounds for the animal show.

Just as Leipzig, Vienna and worn-torn Lyons are now holding their merchants' sample fairs to lure the buyers from America, so did Boston hold its merchants' exposition of 1856.

There were torchlight parades of the Whigs and the Fremonters, parades of school children, night band promenades in the Commons, games in the Public Gardens.

The great exposition wound up with the dedication of the monument to Benjamin Franklin, the Great Boston Apprentice who took up publication of the Boston Gazette when his master and editor was thrown into jail for publishing the fact that the Council of Massachusetts would send forth a frigate in search of pirates, "wind and weather permitting."

Upwards of 100,000 people saw that parade. The fire departments, the girls of the ladies', the Harvard students with their cheers "to the ladies", the school children, the Board of Trade, the secret societies, the Ancient and Honorables, the churches, were all in the parade.

The bakers threw away candies and sweets from floats. Kites were flown all over the city. Fire balloons at night.

There was great cheering for a splendid locomotive the following week. During the dedication parade exhibits were carried on floats, in many of which artisans were at work. The overflow of exhibits was cared for in the City of Boston fair grounds and the flower show was held in old Horticultural Hall. That was a time of inspiring revival of Minute Man spirit for both patriotic and practical purposes.

tive engine, the "Benjamin Franklin," from the Boston Locomotive Works, which was drawn through the streets by a long string of horses. The 200 men of the Ames Manufacturing Company of Chicopee were cheered all along the line. They had cast the statue of Franklin. The men of the Chickering and the Hallet, Davis Piano Companies made fine displays.

The silversmiths' shining wares were a brilliant feature. The hatters, busily at work, were another interesting feature. All of these exhibitors on had come from the Annual Exhibition.

The Masons, the Board of Trade and "numerous other respectable societies of different descriptions were in the parade, and, altogether, the spectators were delighted with the display. The shops were animated with life. There were brilliant displays in the windows and wonderful bargains inside."

Such a success was the merchants' fair that the town boomed.

We read: "The city is in such a flourishing condition and such is the demand for houses that it has been decided to fill in the 200 acres running from the Public Gardens out into the Back Bay and between Boylston street and the mill dam.

"This area is covered with water. But it has been decided to build a boulevard there that will be (the italics are the Advertiser's) "all of 150 feet wide with two rows of stately trees and horse paths thirty feet wide on either side to the distance of a mile and a half or three miles, so that Boston will have an avenue and a residence district to rival the Champs Elysees of Paris or any other drive in the world."

"Among the names suggested are Commonwealth avenue."

And they did it. Denny B. Goode, manager of the hotel and tourists' department of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, addressing the Kiwanis Club, estimated the tourist business as being worth $200,000,000 to New England.

This is remarkable, inasmuch as the tourist business, as such, was not heard of in New England until four or five years ago. It was always known as the vacation business, and the general impression was that it profited only the seashore hotels and country and mountain houses which "took in" Summer boarders.

If so much has been accomplished as Mr. Goode claims, with such a lack of co-operative effort, with such a stifling of publicity, all the more reason for making the most of the great opportunity which, he says, has knocked on the New England door; to welcome it and encourage it by every means in our power, because it has been proved that a wisely-handled tourist business redounds to the general benefit of the localities it favors.

New England "has the goods" for a successful tourist business. One great incentive is the fact that the great historic shrines are here. We have never advertised them. We have been too sensitive about that sort of thing. But it is not a crime to advertise patriotism, to encourage revivals of the American spirit, which made this great free government possible.

This newspaper is not committed to the advocacy of fairs, Summer carnivals or any other particular means to bring visitors to New England. If some one has a better plan, let's support it.
